

GETTING SCRAPPY

a workshop with

Helen Sugars Duff

We all love making beautiful quilts, but what can we do with what's leftover?

Hate the thought of throwing out or wasting your scraps? Want an excuse to use all the decorative stitches on your machine that you never use?

Join a fun day where you can sample a variety of different activities at your own pace, trying as many or as few as you wish (or time allows).

Bring your creativity and sense of fun (don't forget your scraps) in this fluid and flexible workshop and spend the day turning old scraps into a new project.

Possible techniques and materials we will be using include, basic piecing, gluing, iron on adhesives (Vliesofix), fusible interfacing, paper strips, iron on felt, batting etc.

The format of the day will be fluid and flexible, with participants invited to have a say in shaping the content of the workshop. No advanced skills needed.
